CHRONICLE

The Road Not Taken

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood,
And sorry I could not travel both
And be one traveler, long I stood
And looked down one as far as I could
To where it bent in the under growth;

Then took the other, just as fair,
And having perhaps the better claim,
Because it was grassy and wanted wear;
Though as for that the passing there
Had worn them really about the same,

And both that morning equally lay
In leaves no step had trodden black.
Oh, I kept the first for another day!
Yet knowing how way leads on to way,
I doubted if I should ever come back.

I shall be telling this with a sigh
Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood, and I—I took the one less traveled by,
And that has made all the difference.

Introduction

Means of movement to better places
Spiraling off in new directions
Black ink-lines followed in curiosity Paths for all who seek the different.

. . . 6

Administration

Architects of ideals
Typing thoughts into directions
Prideful of heritage right conscious always Caretakers of tradition.

. . . 14

Faculty

Construction workers of the minds
Laying the path then marking it well Pleased always to smooth the way Blessed road pavers of the new age.

. . . 18

Seniors

First travelers of the way Running and walking on many roads
Hoping eyes turned ever front-ward Pilgrims to a distant shrine.

. . . 26

CONTENTS

94 . . .

Underclassmen

Followers of the trampled path
Watching before walking Thoughts beyond today
Tomorrow's pilgrims.

Athletics

A civilized war
Instilling its warriors with selfpride
An ever-constant trauma of losing and the eternal hope of winning.

98 . . .

Activities

Training for the later tasks
Viewing and doing what can be Pleased with achievements
Gaining knowledge in all ways.

120 . . .

Advertisers

More than words and lines on a page People announcing to all their capacity to serve Providers of goods and services.

180 . . .

On the day I began my journey,
The clouds blew running through the sky,
The leaves drifted circling in the air.
Like the air, my mind was free,
With no path in thought to follow
On a search for truth.
The road was a new ribbon—
Freshly bright, unrolled
Before my eyes in any direction
I may have wished to take.

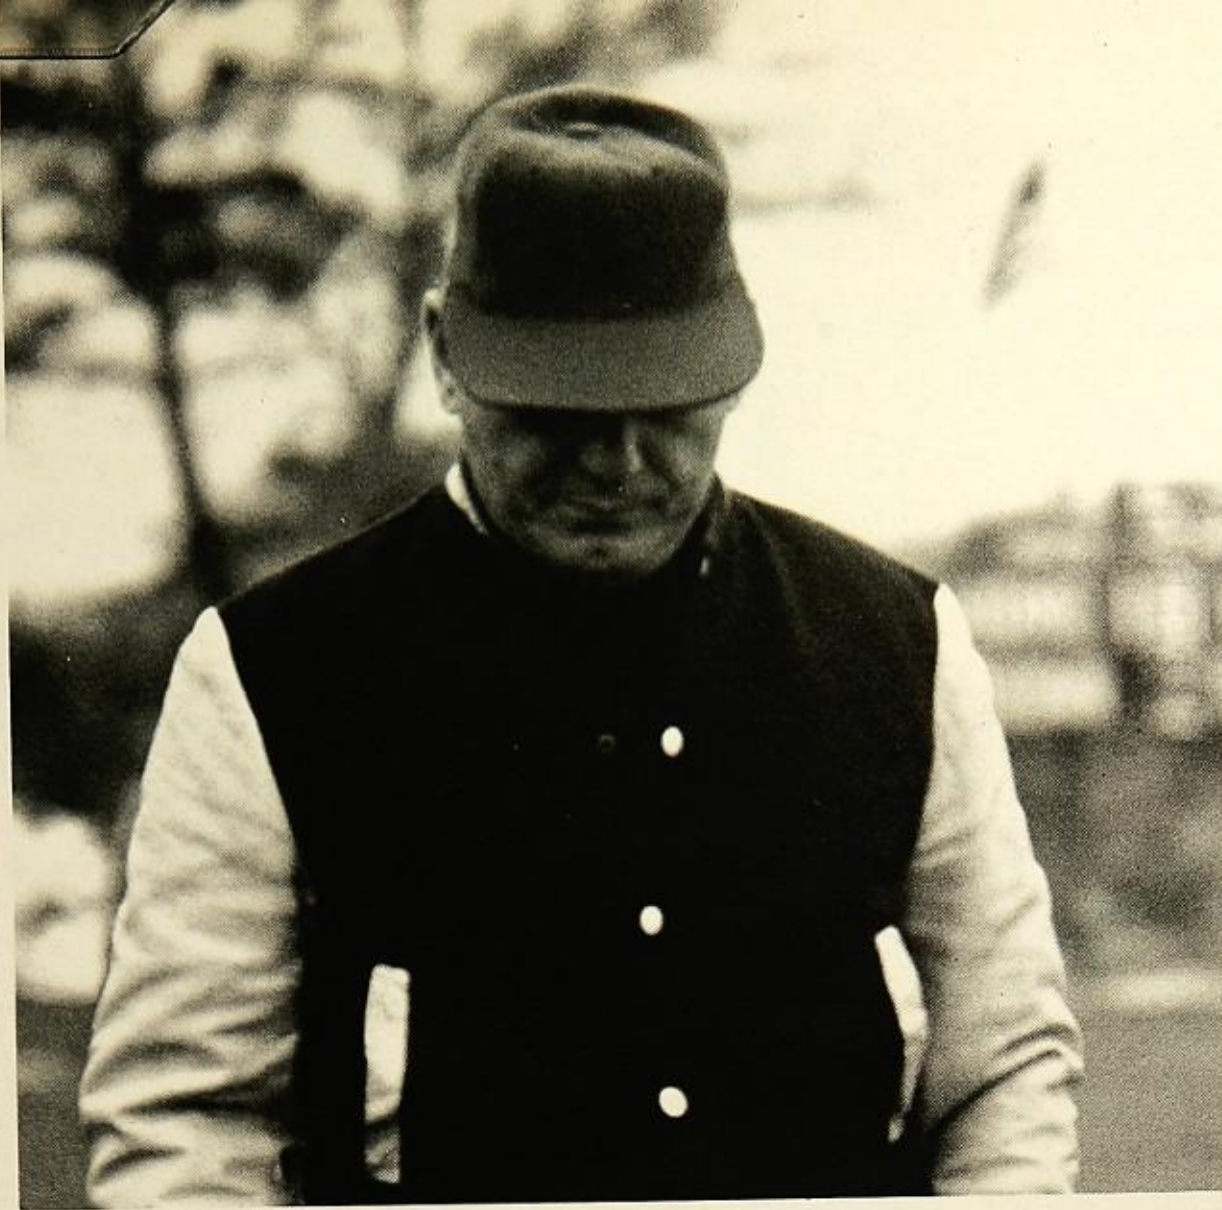

One step further, it lengthened
And divided.

In search of truth I traveled Its distance, changing colors and Directions with little thought
Of the next day.

I wandered down a leafy path Scuffling my tired feet in Tired leaves. I saw that
The road became two; I watched them
Both silently, while resting on a log,
Hoping to see someone like myself,
Wandering.

My mind traced hesitantly
Many answers to my questions.
Do I follow the windy beach
And the sandpiper,
Or turn toward land and the butterfly?

I never thought about directions,
Paths, truths, or falsehoods—
I chased butterflies and searched Robins in the woods, never Noticing the way I came.

DEDICATION

We dedicate the 1969 CHRONICLE to Mr. Robert Krystock. He showed us that nothing is accomplished that we do not do ourselves.

He showed us the meaning of a large word—responsibility—and we are grateful.

He gave to us his time, and his thoughts, but the decisions were always ours.

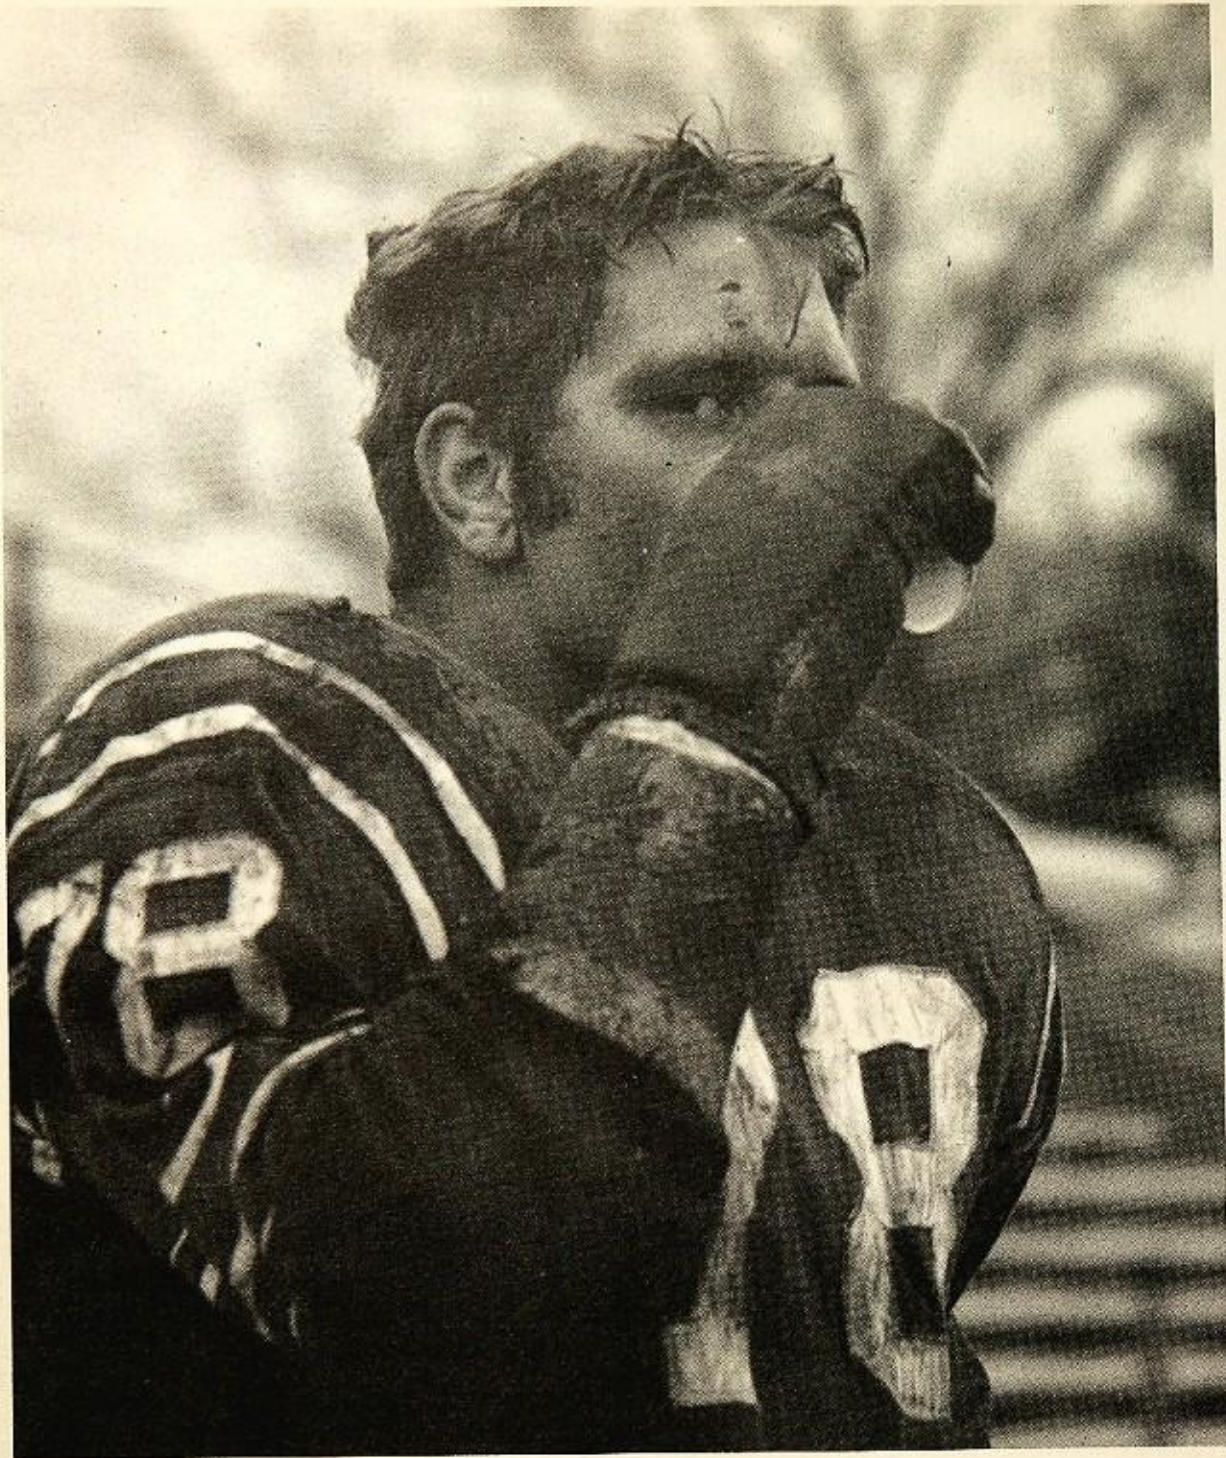

He was ready to help when asked, offering suggestions and advice. The class of 1969 was what we did—with his guidance and his presence. We thank him for all that he has done for us and for our class.

IN APPRECIATION

Mr. Raymond Joyal retired this year, after thirty-eight years of teaching History at Southington High School. For twenty-eight years he advised CHRONICLE staffs, guiding them and providing a link between them and the production companies. The excellent quality of Southington High School's CHRONICLES is the result of his earlier efforts. Without him, the job of putting together the yearbook will be more difficult.

The cleanest road
Is sometimes edged with mud—
There were times when I Fell by the side of the path;
Always I stood and returned.

And then perhaps
There was a time
I found a friend;
We ran through the rain
Laughing, laughing;
We thought we saw the road. . . .

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

When I was a sophomore, and later when I became a junior, I felt that the class was being run by a small, chosen, group of students. I felt that I wanted to do something about it. I ran for the office and became president of the Senior Class.

Now that I am your president, I find that the only reason these people are so active and do so much is that they are chosen by the members of the class—you.

I wish I could give to some people half as much help in return as they have given me.

I would like now to thank the class of 1969 for electing me, and for working for the class.

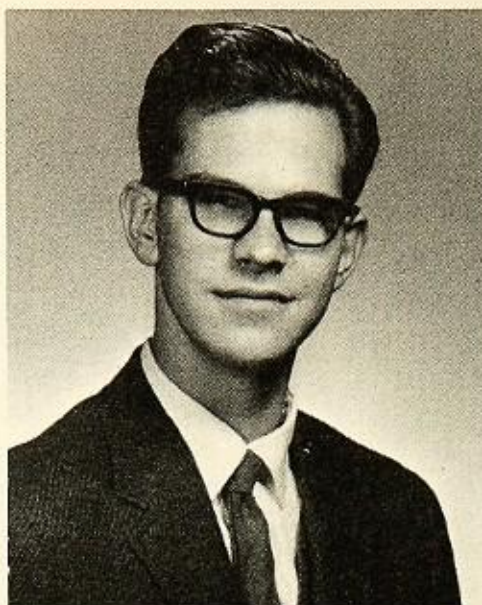

May God bless you always.

Stop here; rest a while, friends,
Before we journey forth.
From here our trails and paths and roads
go seven ways, and North.
We've been together many miles,
we all have plans and hopes;
but time has come to end our bond and leave this sun-flecked copse.
And each will go his separate way,
for heartless as it seems,
for now each walks within himself,
and reaches his own dreams.
And each will choose his lonely path
and travel on alone, and pick his way among the trees—decisions are his own.
Converging roads in yellow woods ahead of us will lie,
and it won't matter which we choose,
for each extracts a sigh from those who take the other one, and often wish that they had picked the one which they did not,
and gone a different way.
We'll all continue by ourselves
when this our rest is done,
and some will turn to Eastern mist,
and some to Western sun.
And in the words that we recall from minstrels who were ours, (words amplified by microphones, enchanted by guitars.)
We'll listen through the haze of time, and finally know just how—
" 'Cause we were so much older then—we're younger then that now."

Farewell, my friends, and as you go,
and fade into the trees,
the only things that will remain are misplaced memories of life and love, and those we knew and lived with way back when—those memories of childhood we'll never see again.
Goodbye, o life I knew so well!
I hear the voice of dawn whisper soft "Was yesterday, and yesterday is gone."

OFFICERS of the SENIOR CLASS are Lorraine Gentile, Secretary; Dennis Putala, President; Ron Zajac, Vice-President; Sue Tedesco, Treasurer.

CLASS of 1969

At the outset of our Sophomore Year, Mr. Robert Krystock was chosen as our class advisor.

Class Officers, Patrick Musshorn (Pres.), Robert Kane (V. Pres.), Susan Tedesco (Treas.), William Hobson (Sec.), Phyllis Fryzel (Asst. Sec.), were chosen.

The Class of '69 initiated the first Spaghetti Supper ever held at Southington High School under the chairmanship of Suzanne Niebling, the first of many new ideas introduced by our class.

As Juniors, we held our second Spaghetti Supper.

Class Officers for this year Patrick Musshorn (Pres.), Peter Smith (V. Pres.), Susan Tedesco (Treas.), Lorraine Gentile (Sec.), were elected.

We replaced the traditional Junior Play with a new innovation, The Junior Show, under the chairmanship of Lorraine Gentile and direction of Debbie Calvo. Over $\frac{1}{3}$ of the class participated in the fun.

Tom Angelo and Jean Walstrom were co-chairmen of our Junior Prom, "Fantasy in Frost" when Ken Paradis and Rita Fortin were crowned King and Queen. Also, the Junior Recital was won by Bruce Kulmacz, who delivered a speech on patriotism.

DAR GOOD CITIZEN AWARD RECIPIENT, Lorraine Gentile

Our year as the upperclassmen of Southington High started with the election of Senior class officers, Dennis Putala (Pres.), Deborah Weldon (V. Pres.), Ronald Zajac (V. Pres.), Susan Tedesco (Treas.), Lorraine Gentile (Sec.).

Barbara Chopus was chosen 1968 Homecoming Queen and the Class of '69 again sponsored its Spaghetti Supper.

The Senior Play, "Dirty Work at the Crossroads" was produced under the direction of co-chairman Richard Grabowski and Roxanne Marr and The Senior Prom, with its theme, "Gone with the Wind" was organized by Co-chairmen Jim Palmieri and Sue Simone.

Three years of work, fun, tears and laughter are over. We can say it was ours.

... one sometimes and doubts his sanity asks why . . .

The pain of double sessions, the times when your lungs are ready to burst, the countless hours of scrimmage and the darkness of practice—all for a winning season. One sometimes doubts his sanity and asks why he ever wanted to play. But the satisfaction of making the right move at the right time, the feeling of knowing you've made the block that sprung the back for a score makes it all seem worthwhile.

BASKETBALL

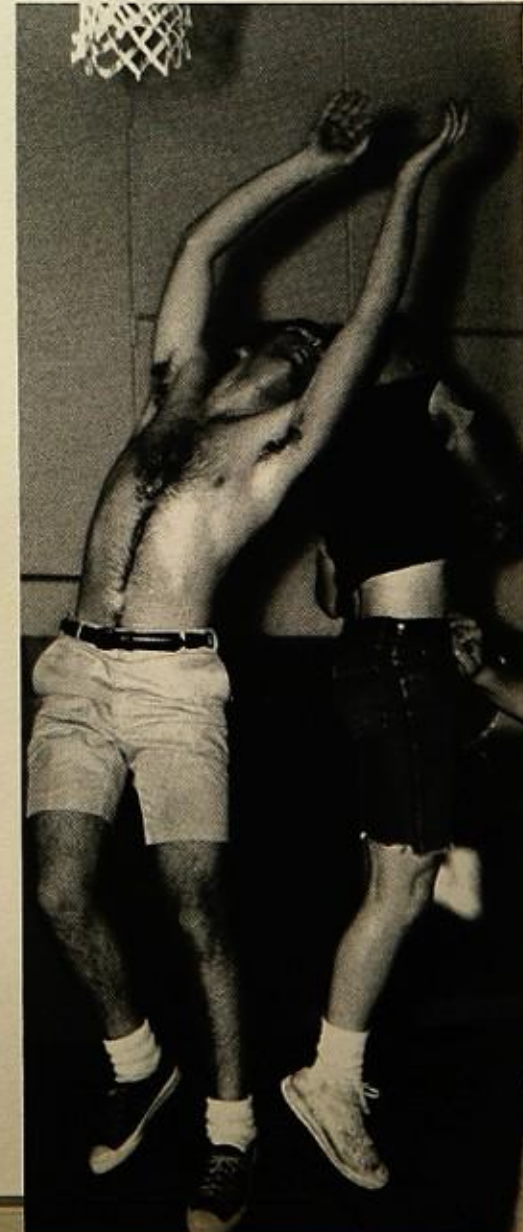

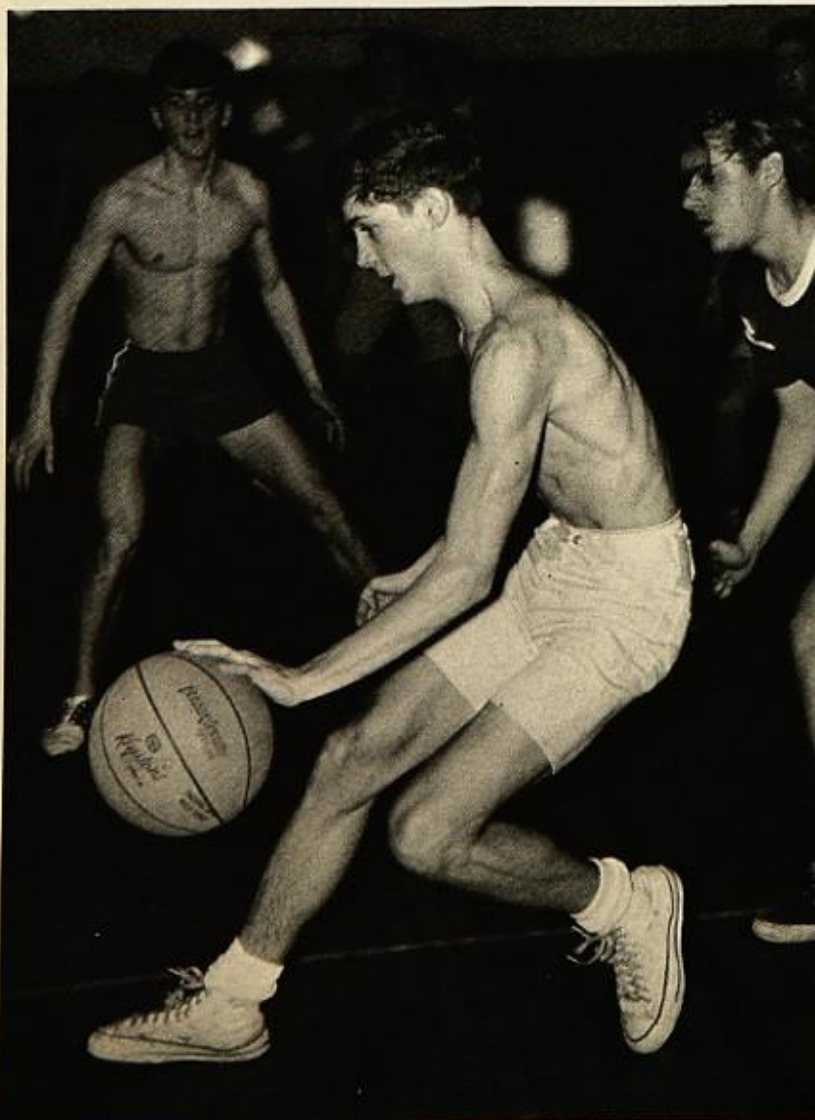

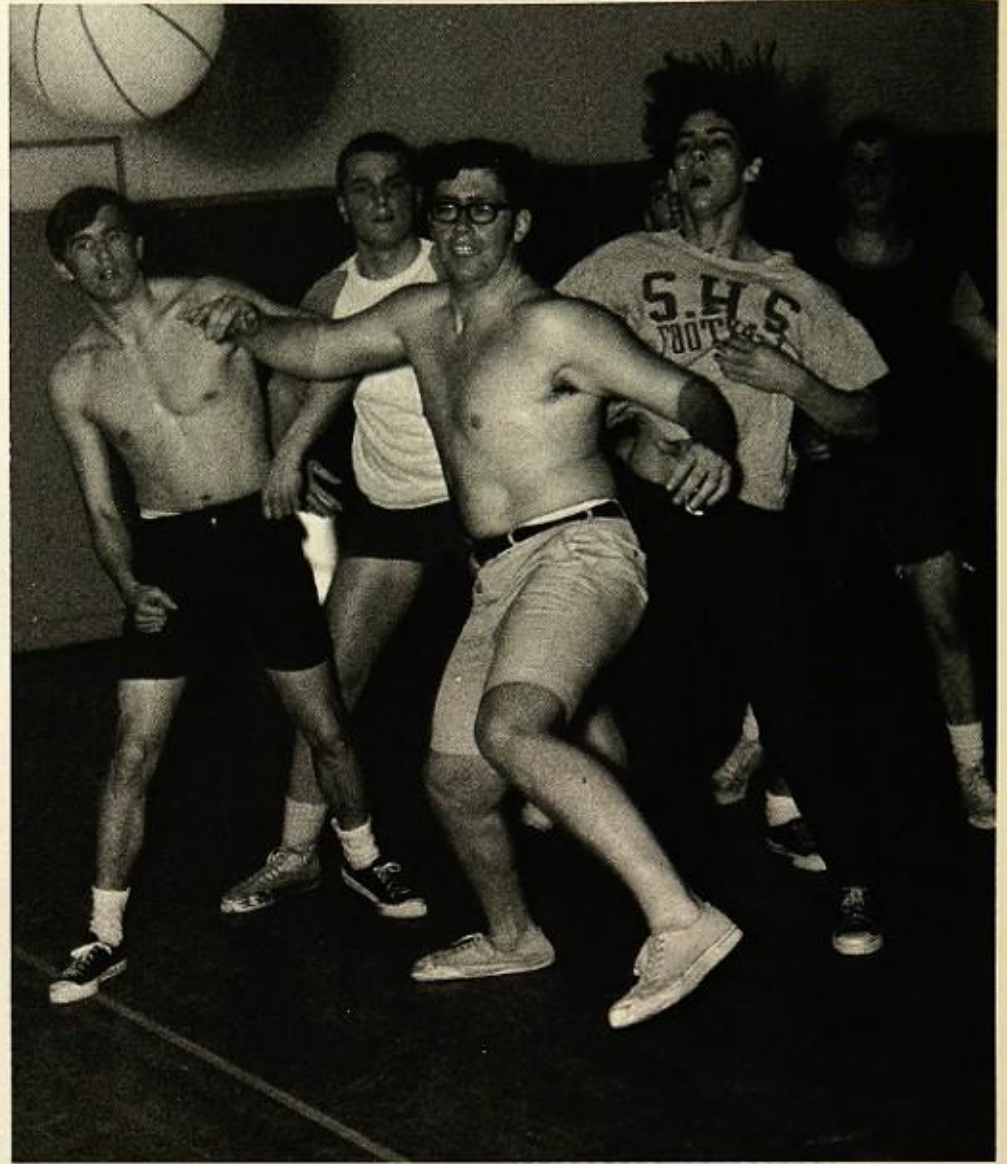

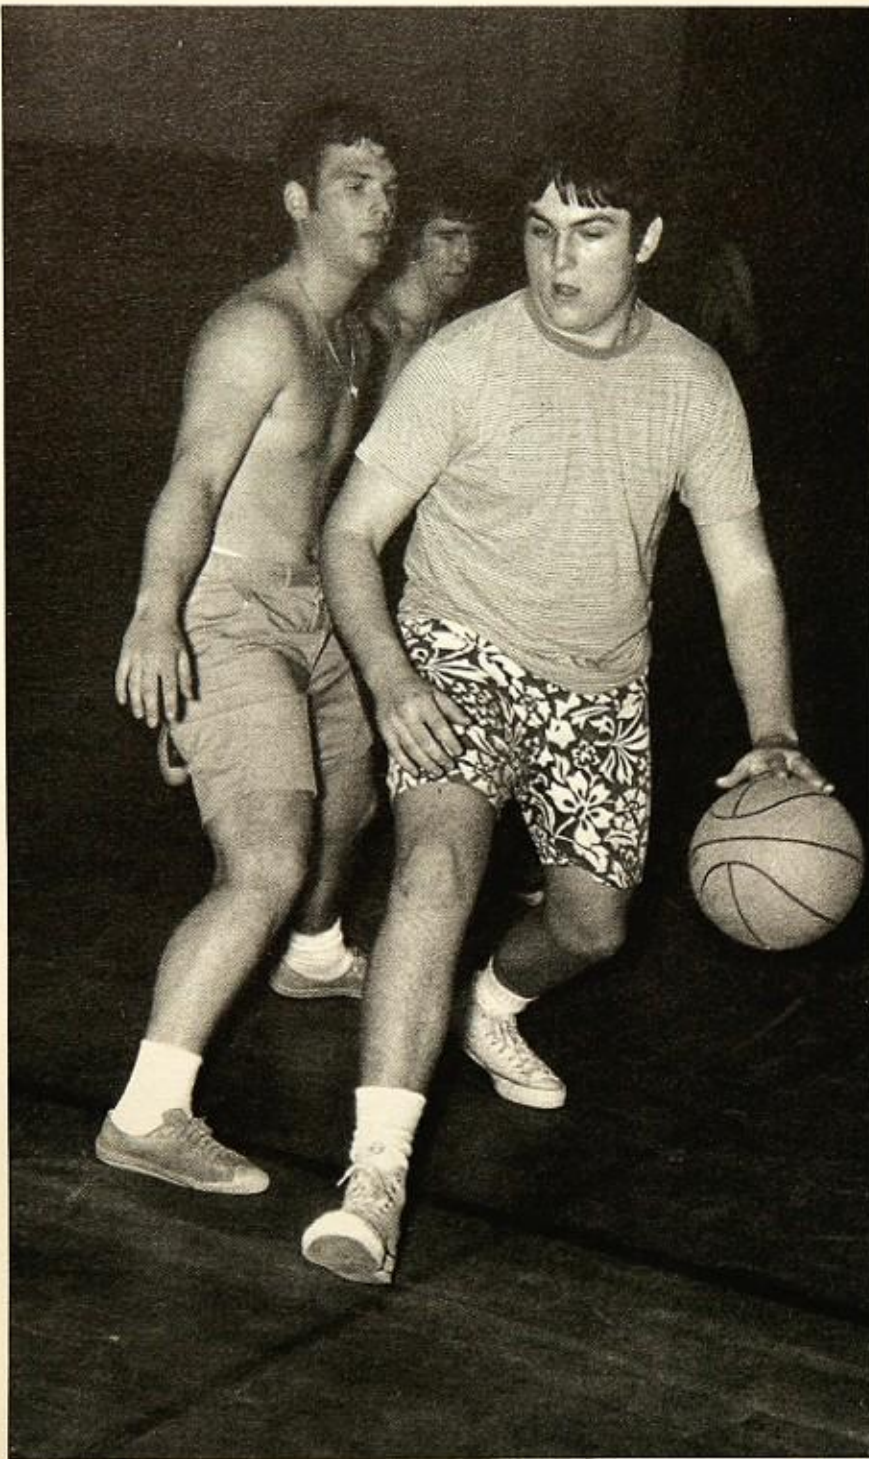

You run, run, and run some more. Run until you're going to die, because you know that if you stop, you are going to lose. Teamwork—a good pass is as good as a good shot. A tie game, five seconds to go, you're on the foul line. All the pressure in the world is on you, all that running you've done is bet on that ball going through that small metal hoop. You shoot . . .

You're alone on the court. Here teamwork doesn't matter. No spectators, no encouragement from the stands. If you make a mistake only you know, only you can tell yourself you can win. Running—back and forth, left and right, chasing a small white ball, trying to catch your opponent off balance. A missed shot, a bad serve. Well, you learn from mistakes. Next time you won't miss.

JUNIOR RECITAL

Marilyn Simmons Won the 1969 Junior Recital with her speech entitled "How to Succeed". Other speakers included Colleen McCarthy, with "Revolution '69", Linda Tomaszewicz, whose topic was "Teenagers and Riots", Nancy Hemberger, "America the Beautiful", Robert Izzo, "Death before Birth", and Laurie Von Daack, who spoke on "Dissent in America".

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

The minds, the intellect, the talent involved here . . . and still the secretary can't light a candle or a match. They tell us we are the examples, but there are times when I wonder—of what? Sometimes I think that the only advantage in belonging to NHS is the library privilege or the chance to wear a flower on a winter day. Then I find someone to tutor, or the book I ordered for the bookstore finally came in (the day after it closed) and I know that I am a part of this and I am pleased.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The cliquers, the "elite", the rubber stamps—those are the titles we are given. It's not too flattering. But flattery, I suppose, is not what we're after. We take care of little things like pencil sharpeners and waste baskets in the auditorium, easily. When you get to things like Senior privileges or an "open" gym, we have to work. We try to get things done by talking and working with the administration. Lot's of times we win; many times we don't. When we fail, we think that maybe next year someone will not. And when we get something different in the school and it works, we can say that the students did something for themselves—which is really all that counts.

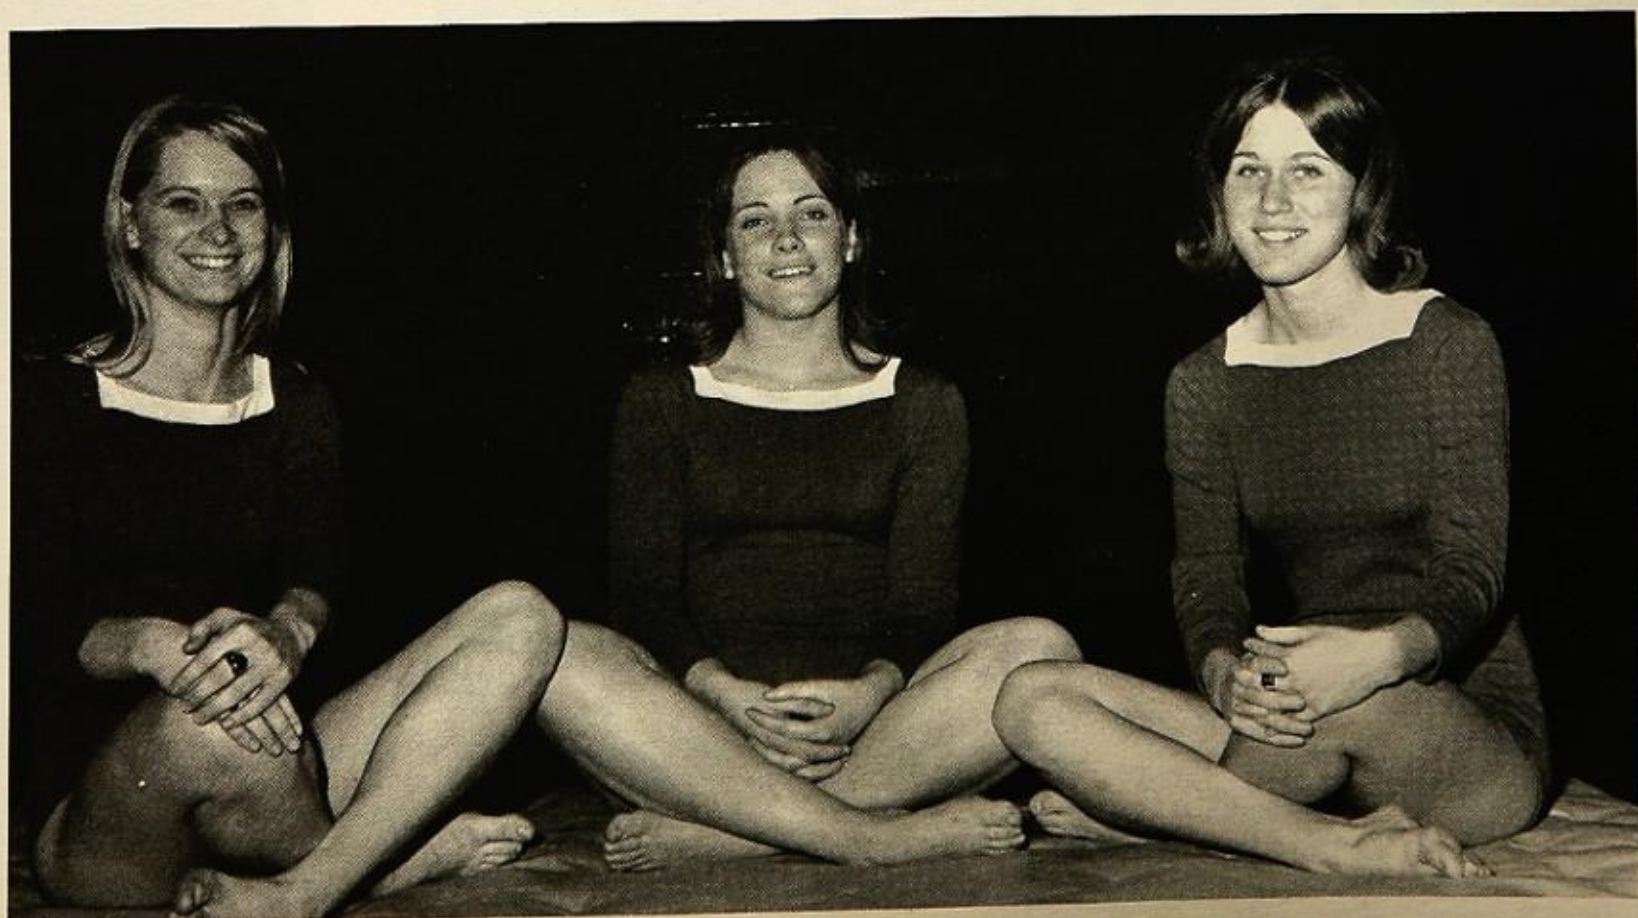

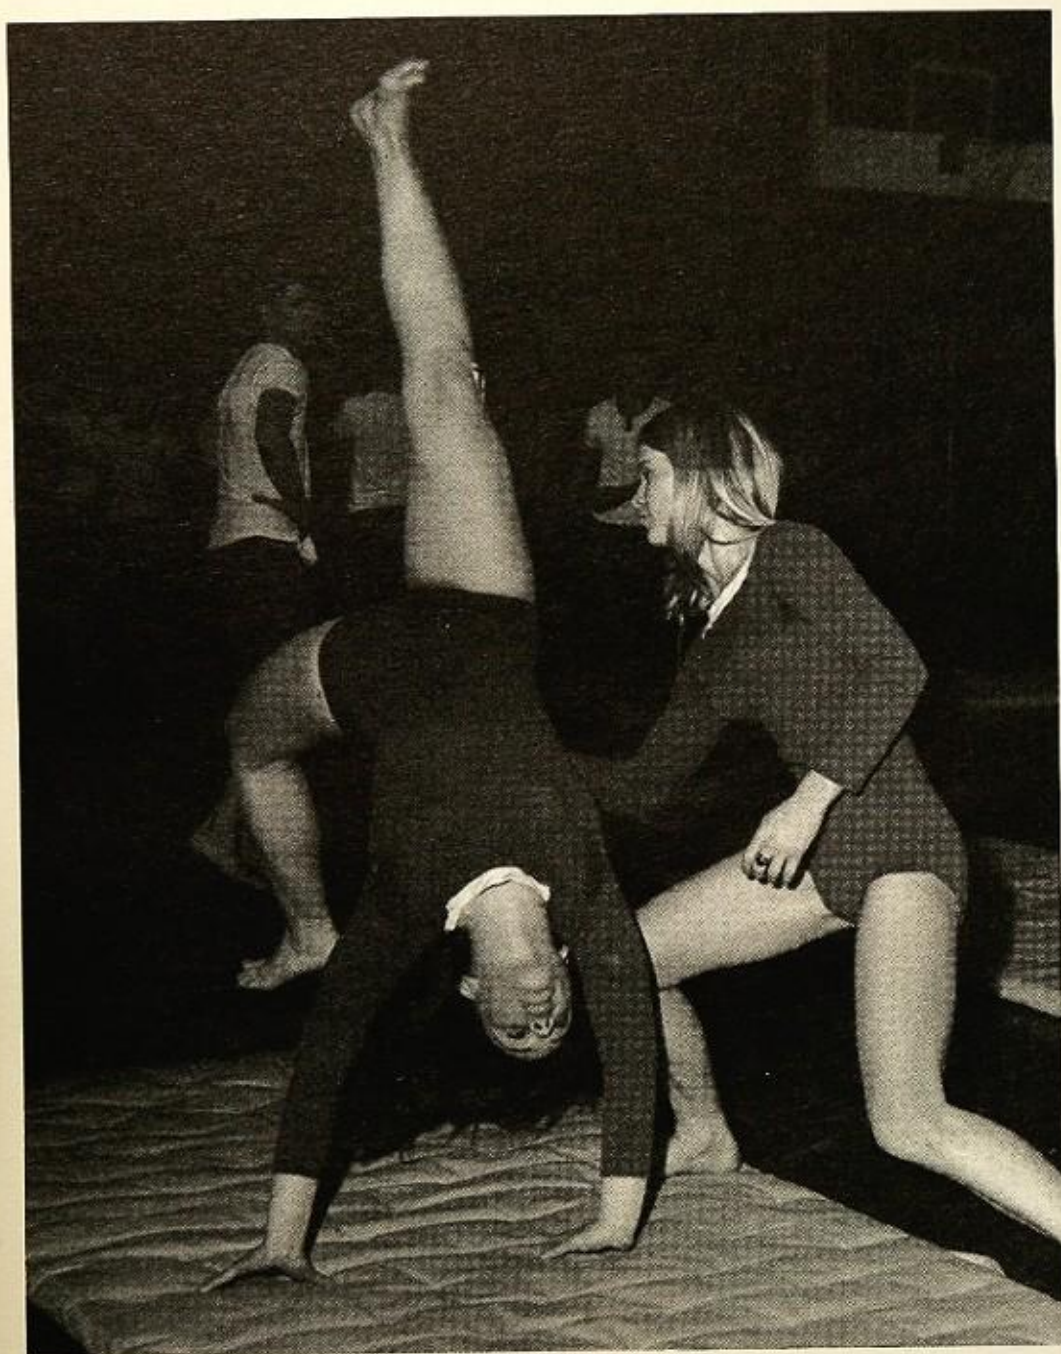

KEY CLUB

Service is not just work. That's what you learn. I'll tell you, when you know there is a small girl in Viet Nam who used to be starving, and who isn't any more because you've helped, well, that's the difference. Or at Christmas time, personally bringing gifts to kids who are happy with just a decent meal once in a while. You do it once, and you get a feeling inside you that makes you want to do it again.

I pushed my hands
into the dark night,
counting the steps between streetlights but forgetting that I should have counted more to walk around the cars.
The turn-offs are indistinct, almost invisible—I followed the wires and strings of lights.
I couldn't have used the light of the stars;
they were too dim to be seen.

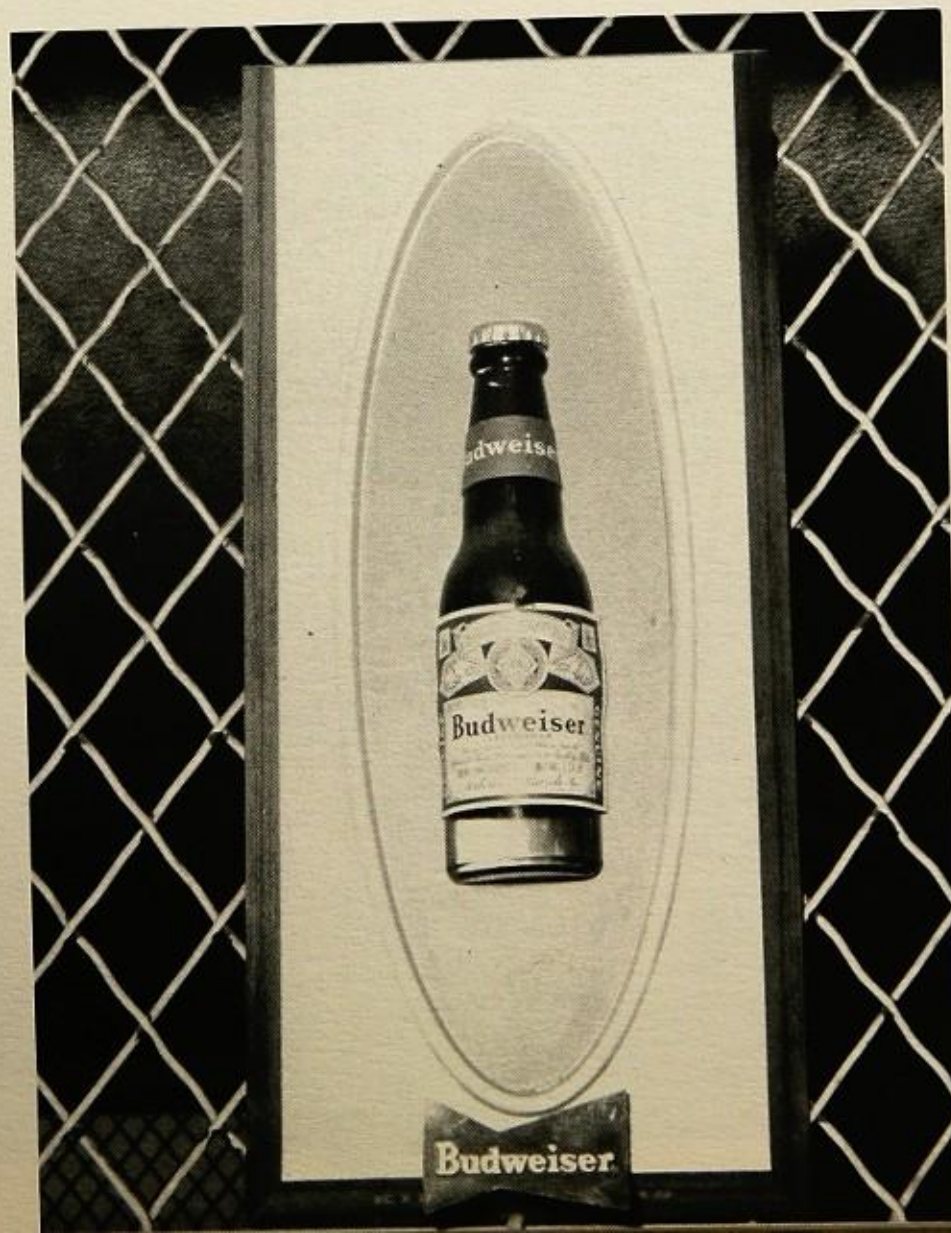

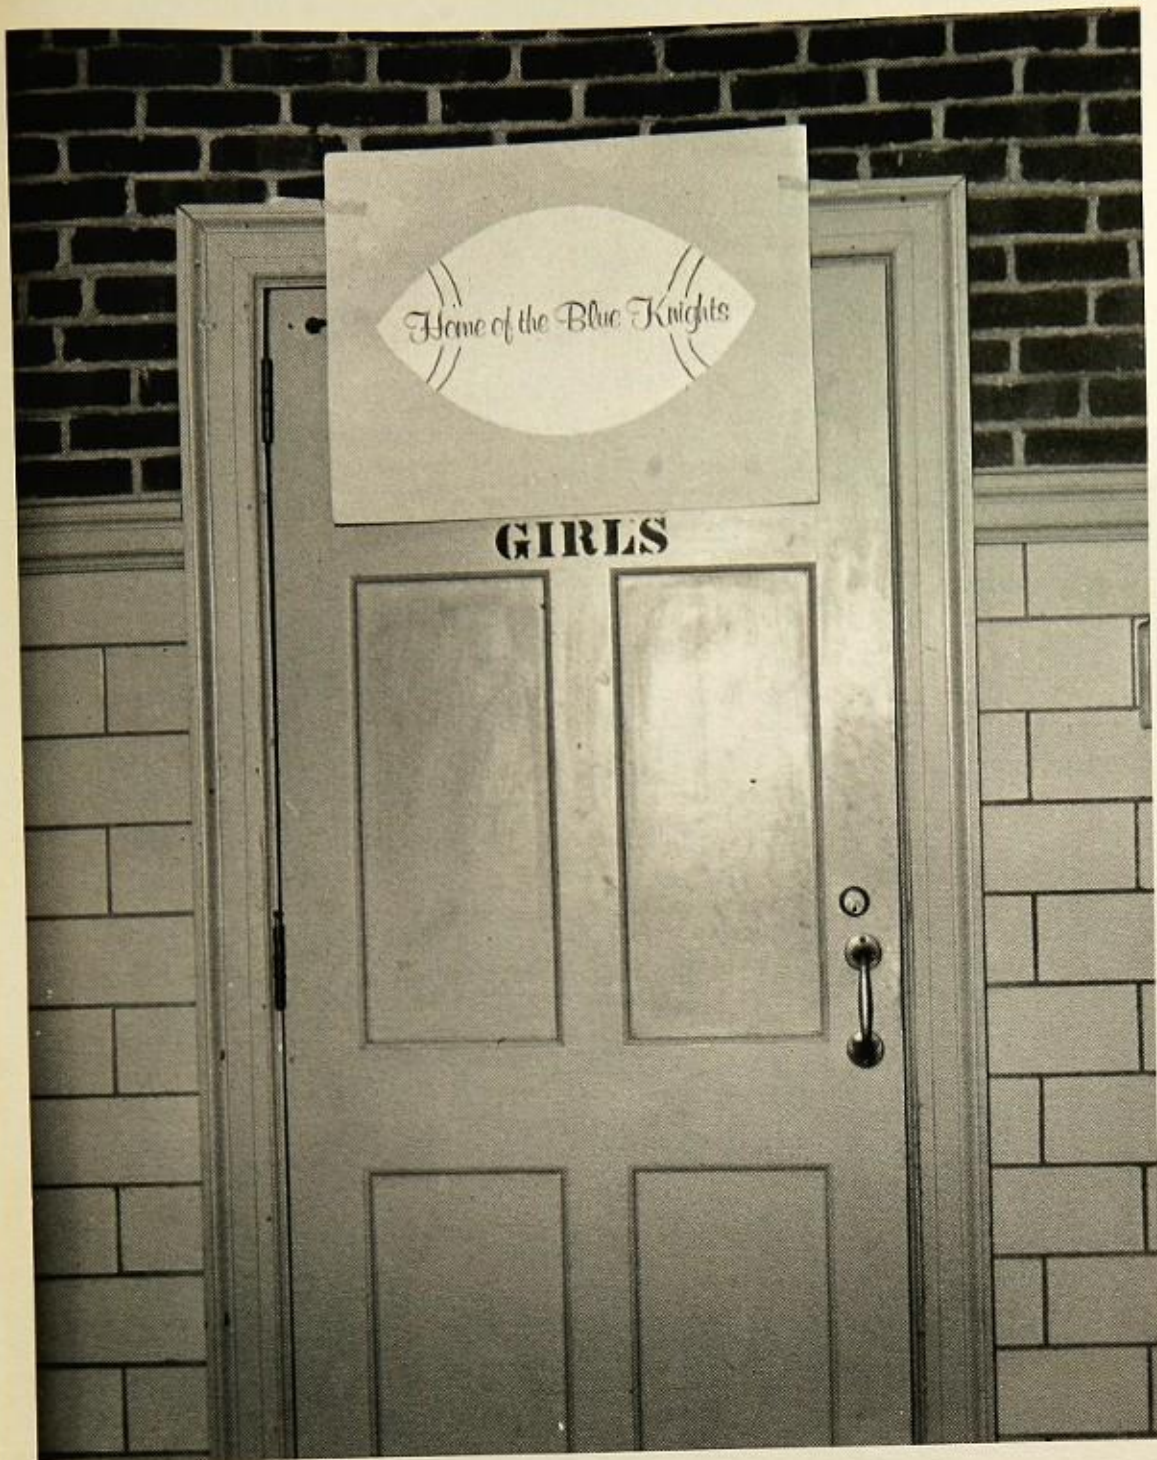

After I had moved many miles
the sun appeared lighting the clouds and my eyes.
I stood near a tower,
on a cliff, I saw below me streets, cars, people.

I climbed down a rock
by some magic means I ambled on a marked road, through steel and glass open doors down a dark hall, not stepping on the lines.
I stared at a closed door,
a wire gate, holding me behind them.

Unlocking the door, pushing open the gate, I entered, was greeted and introduced to Someone's friend. One friend showed me another—I met smiles and gifts.

I'll ask you not to give me a place for my loneliness to hide in or to show me a hole in the wall.
Maybe I did lose my way,
maybe I didn't see the road
you thought I should know.
This is my life, and this is my destination.
All roads lead to truth for those who seek it.
The decision is a matter of taste and adventure.

I've seen many strange times, talked sometimes too much,
listened only a little.
I can say to you with a smile
what I now know;
you can listen and try to understand,
or raise your eyebrows and sigh at my illusions.

Don't look back to the sun-pierced past—you will find it vanishing as a drop in a pool of water or a flickering shadow on a screen.

Stop for many days,
weeks, years,
to read a book,
play a game,

make a friend, or watch others on a stage.
Never forget your direction, your place, or your speed.

Skip, leap, run, scatter laughter and tears bright-eyed over everyone.
Give presents and throw the ribbons to the children who wait for them.

I stayed for a time,
I spoke, I listened,
I tried to learn. I slept in peace while others sang, laughed, fell, planned surprising things.

If I had taken the easy way, I would have found the answer—years later and obscure.
I had to see, to think, to know
I was right, although I was alone.
All I'll take from you now is a word and your hand—for a moment—before I whisper
"Goodbye and peace be with you."

 SS-5: School Spirit 5? . . . Give me a break!!

It is 2:18, June 20, 1969. We have left the long, straight, beautiful highway. We've left. Or have we arrived? The road ahead is wider, but pitted with holes and cracks, routed with snakelike turns. That last stretch of road went by too quickly. Last September was yesterday. But it's gone. What will I do tomorrow? What will I do now?
It is 2:19. EXIT 69.

A full-page photograph of a sunset. The sky is a deep, vibrant red, transitioning to a darker, almost black, greenish-brown at the top. Silhouettes of trees and a person are visible against the bright sky. The person is standing on the right side of the frame, facing away from the camera and looking towards the horizon. The overall mood is contemplative and serene.

We have walked together
Hand in hand
Into the sunset.
But the sun will rise again . . .
Tomorrow.
